To Whom It May Concern,

This letter is to serve as a referral for Lim Jin Bin, who is completing a six-month internship under my supervision at Johnson Controls.

During his internship, Jin Bin supported our team across multiple areas in many value-added tasks, including process automation, dashboarding and process improvement activities. He demonstrated a good working attitude throughout – willing to learn, receptive to feedback and consistently maintaining a positive and professional approach to his work. Jin Bin also worked well with the team and was dependable in completing assigned tasks.

If you require any additional information regarding his internship scope and contributions, please feel free to contact me.
